Fiction (continued)

MARXISM AND AFTER

By F. D. J. Johnston

The latest book of the series "The Marxist" by F. D. J. Johnston, the author of "The Marxist and the Man," is a powerful and persuasive argument for the thesis that Marxism is the dominant intellectual force of our time. The book is written in a clear and concise style, and is well-organized and well-researched. It is a must-read for anyone interested in understanding the current political climate and the role of Marxism in it.

WAPSHOT AGONIES

By John Creasey

John Creasey's new book, "Wapshot Agonies," is a gripping and thought-provoking novel about a family's struggle to survive in the face of adversity. The story is set in the Wapshot Agonies, a remote and isolated area in the country, where the residents are forced to rely on themselves and each other for survival. The novel is a powerful portrayal of the human condition and the challenges of life in a world that is often harsh and unforgiving.

SLAVES OF UNCONVENTION

By Anne Birdsall

Anne Birdsall's latest novel, "Slaves of Unconvention," is a thrilling and suspenseful story about a group of rebels who are fighting for their freedom in a world that is ruled by convention. The novel is set in a future society where conformity is everything, and those who dare to think differently are hunted and destroyed. Birdsall's writing is powerful and passionate, and the story is a call to action for those who believe in the power of individuality and freedom.

OUT TODAY!

The Italian Girl

IRIS MURDOCH

"The Italian Girl" is a new novel by Iris Murdoch, one of the most celebrated and respected authors of our time. The novel is a powerful and moving story about a woman who travels to Italy to seek a new beginning. It is a tale of love, loss, and redemption, and Murdoch's writing is as beautiful and evocative as ever. "The Italian Girl" is a must-read for anyone who loves literature and is looking for a story that will stay with them long after they have turned the last page.

Rule Three: Pretend to be Nice

ANNABEL DILKE

"Rule Three: Pretend to be Nice" is a novel by Annabel Dilke, one of the most popular and bestselling authors of our time. The novel is a heartwarming and uplifting story about a woman who learns the importance of kindness and empathy. It is a tale of love, friendship, and the power of the human spirit, and Dilke's writing is as charming and delightful as ever. "Rule Three: Pretend to be Nice" is a must-read for anyone who loves literature and is looking for a story that will bring a smile to their face.